Horde of Silver Dollars Big Problem for Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stashed away in a sealed vault in the basement of the Treasury Department is one of the most unusual problems ever faced by the nation's money men—what to do with three million silver dollars.

The Treasury has wrestled with the problem since 1964 when it stopped feeding silver dollars into circulation because all the remaining ones were worth much more than $1 as collectors items.

One Treasury official estimated the value in the coin collectors market at roughly $75 million.

The Joint Commission on the Coinage—the group of Treasury officials, members of Congress and private citizens who periodically review coinage policy—plans to discuss the silver dollar headache in detail at its next meeting Monday.

But some officials don't look for a quick solution. The commission has discussed the problem on and off since its first meeting in May, 1967.

It now has before it, however, the first hard suggestion from a Treasury official.

Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Treasury, has suggested sale of the silver dollars by the department at the collector-market value.

More than 2.8 million of the dollars now in Treasury hands were made at the Carson City, Nev., mint in the late 1880s. No silver dollars have been minted since 1935 and there are no plans at this time to mint any more.

Place the dollars in circulation and they will just disappear.

The university said four others also were identified as being involved in the April 26 incident.

in the hands of coin collectors and the country won't get what the coins are really worth, the Treasury reasons.

Congress in 1966 considered bills to permit the Treasury to sell the coins for $1 each to the heart and cancer societies which in turn would sell them to coin collectors and dealers at a profit.

But the Treasury contended such a plan discriminated against other groups just as worthy and insisted any profits should go to the public, not to a private group.

The silver in the coins is now worth much more than their face value because of the sharp jump in the price of silver to more than $2 an ounce the past year.

At a price of $1.29 an ounce, the silver content of the dollars is worth $1.

Melting of the coins is barred by the Treasury, however, which intends to keep the ban in effect indefinitely.

85 Persons Hurt As Circus Tent Falls to Ground

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP) — A circus tent collapsed Tuesday night during a violent thunderstorm, injuring 85 of an estimated 300 spectators, police reported.

State Police said 24 persons were hospitalized, mostly with broken limbs. One person suffered a broken jaw.

About 800 persons were in the tent before the storm began, but many left because of the heavy rain and winds. The tent can hold 4,000.

Two dozen of the injured were admitted to hospitals. Others were treated at the scene or discharged from hospitals after treatment.

The 300-foot-long tent was the scene of a performance by the Clyde-Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus in this Finger Lakes city.

Some in the audience said the collapse was preceded by a loosening of some of the aluminum poles holding up the tent and by a rush of water down the top above the center ring.

"There was a loud scream but there was no time for panic," said Bob Fasse, a reporter for the Auburn Citizen Advertiser who was in the tent.

"Everybody hit the dirt and

Find Girl; Disbelieve Kidnap Story

CORRY, Pa. (AP) — State Police say they believe Karen Sue Cooney, the teen-age girl who was found after a 26-hour search by hundreds of police and firemen, ran away from home and was not abducted.

"We now believe this is a case of a runaway girl. This is due to some discrepancies," state police investigator Tyco Lange said Tuesday. Karen, 15, was hospitalized Tuesday after she was spotted by a helicopter pilot searching the heavily wooded, rocky country near her home outside of Corry.

Officials said Karen, who vanished while hanging clothes Monday morning after her mother heard her scream, was suffering from shock, exposure and a possible nervous condition.

Police said the nervous condition may have caused her to walk away from home.

Police speculated that Karen spent the night in an abandoned house in the area. Police said the girl told them she hid behind a tree Monday to avoid being spotted by a light plane that had joined the search.

Couve de Murville Named French Premier

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle has dramatically rearranged France's political picture again by choosing Maurice Couve de Murville to replace Premier Georges Pompidou, and the public is left wondering what it's all about.

Only six weeks ago, De Gaulle lauded Pompidou and said there was no thought of replacing him. The premier was touted as De Gaulle's successor, and there was speculation that the president might retire early.

Many experienced observers now feel that De Gaulle, in changing his chief political aide, is giving notice he intends to serve out his seven-year term, which expires in 1972.

What caused the break between Pompidou and De Gaulle? Neither has explained, and it is most unlikely that either will.

However, reliable sources have reported that Pompidou is not in favor of De Gaulle's plans for worker participation in the management councils of industry.

Published reports—never confirmed, never denied and never officially noticed—also have said that Pompidou criticized De Gaulle's handling of the student-worker strikes upheaval in May and even suggested De Gaulle should resign.

Pompidou was widely praised for his handling of the May crisis. He was about the only political leader who came out of the upheaval with his reputation enhanced.

He has long preached a need to fight the Communists on the home political front, and De Gaulle adopted this rallying cry for the National Assembly elections last month. Pompidou was the general manager for the

London Prison Near Normal, Koblenz Says

Ringleaders Are Transferred To Chillicothe

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — The ringleaders of recent disturbances now removed from the scene, conditions at London Correctional Institution were returning to normal today.

Unruly inmates Tuesday set numerous small fires and smashed windows in four of nine dormitories at the London prison, a minimum security institution.

Highway patrolmen and 250 national guardsmen were ordered into the prison and quickly put down the disturbance.

Officials later in the day transferred 89 men identified as ringleaders to the Chillicothe Correctional Institution, where acting superintendent W. J. Whealon said they had been isolated.

Tuesday's trouble was Ohio's second major prison disturbance in two weeks. Inmates at Ohio Penitentiary rioted June 24, setting more than a dozen fires and causing damage estimated at $1 million.

State corrections chief Maury Koblenz said damage at the London prison would be "very, very low." He said fire damage is "practically nil" with most of the damage coming from broken windows and smashed furniture.

"There was no systematic attempt to burn down any building," Koblenz said.

Prison Supt. B. E. Haskins described the fires as "nuisance fires" set in waste baskets and mattresses. Prison guards extinguished them, with the London.

Senate May Delay Atom Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, on which President Johnson has urged swift action, appears certain of Senate passage but possibly not in this session.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says the timing of a floor vote depends on how soon the Senate Foreign Relations Committee winds up its hearings, which opened today with Secretary of State Dean Rusk the first scheduled witness.

"We'll see what develops," Mansfield said Tuesday, shortly before Johnson's urgent recommendation "that the Senate move swiftly" on the treaty.

Mansfield, noting the congressional adjournment target of Aug. 3, said "time isn't a factor" on the treaty, which must be ratified by 43 nations before it can take effect.

The three major nuclear powers—the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain—must be among the 43 and it is expected to be several months before all ratify.

A total of 60 nations have signed the agreement, subject to approval by their respective legislative bodies.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders of both parties say they want a gun control bill to include the registration and licensing of all firearms, regardless of what the House does.

Both President Johnson and Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., have proposed bills requiring that all guns in the country be registered and their owners licensed. These measures were before the Senate Judiciary Committee today with a Tydings spokesman rating the outcome a toss up.

"We have to face up to our responsibilities," Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said. "We shouldn't tell the House what to do, nor should the House tell us what to do."

Both Mansfield and Republican Leader Sen. Everett M. Dirksen said they favor Tydings' bill. Dirksen, in echoing his Democratic counterpart's sentiments on independent action said any difference with the House could be settled in a conference committee.

The House Rules Committee Tuesday cleared for floor action a bill to prohibit the interstate mail-order sale of shotguns and rifles.

Before doing so, the committee won a promise from Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to oppose any effort to add on registration and licensing provisions.

Tydings' bill is similar to President Johnson's proposal, the difference being Tydings' bill would require federal registration and licensing only in states that fail to enact substantially equivalent legislation.

The administration bill provides for federal registration of firearms but the licensing of gun owners would be left to the states if they pass legislation meeting federal standards.

The bill cleared by the House Rules Committee, by a reported 10-5 vote, would extend to rifles and shotguns the restrictions on sales of handguns provided in the recently passed crime control measure.

Another provision would prohibit the over-the-counter sale of rifles and shotguns in a state to nonresidents unless the purchaser comes from a state with an adjoining border.

Rocky Sets His Own Poll After Rebuff by GOP Chief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller—rebuffed on his call for a cross-country poll to indicate who the strongest Republican presidential candidate would be—is reported ready to conduct it on his own.

Richard M. Nixon, whose aides along with Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss rejected Rockefeller's proposal Tuesday, concentrated his efforts today on increasing his commanding delegate lead for the GOP nomination.

Nixon said he would ask Ohio's 58-vote delegation to consider which GOP presidential candidate would help them most at home in November. He planned to meet late today in Chicago with delegates from nine other Midwest states.

Rockefeller advisers said he governor could be expected to commission his proposed poll without the cooperation of Nixon or Bliss.

The governor had said the survey would cost at least an average $5,000 per state and said he would finance it on his own "to the degree that I can raise the money to pay for it."

He proposed either a survey of all 50 states or of the states with the largest cities. Aides said he probably would settle on the latter, expecting results in the cities to be favorable to him.

Nixon aide Herbert G. Klein rejected the proposal with the comment: "A time of national crisis is no time for political gimmickry."

Bliss declined to participate on the ground that the national committee should maintain "complete neutrality" in the party's presidential race.

On the Democratic side, sources close to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey say he has offered the vice presidential spot if he wins the Democratic presidential nomination to no one.

They say he is not telling even his closest friends his preference for a running mate, and expect he will remain silent on his choice until the Democratic National Convention opens in Chicago Aug. 26.

But they acknowledge pressures could cause Humphrey to tip his hand before the convention.

Housing Bill Faces Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's $5.5 billion, three-year housing bill has survived attempts to make deep cuts in the measure and appears headed for House approval.

The bill, up for possible final House action today, includes a program for government interest subsidies to low and moderate-income families seeking to buy homes.

One amendment the House adopted Tuesday 118-101 does provide some restraint on the interest subsidy plan.

Instead of leaving the determination of eligibility to the Housing Department, the House provided that such aid, which could amount to absorbing all but 1 per cent of the interest, may be provided only to families whose income is not more than 30 per cent greater than that of families eligible for public housing.

This eligibility varies from community to community. A similar provision was inserted for tenants of interest-subsidized rental and co-operative housing.

Demands Halt To Attacks Against North

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador Xuan Thuy, pressing for a quick end to all U.S. attacks on North Vietnam, accused American authorities today of having "spread rumors" of progress in the Paris peace talks to serve their own political purposes.

Thuy, denying progress, told U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman that the search going on here for a way toward peace in Vietnam would fail unless the United States halts all attacks on the North at once. In case of such a failure, he argued, the United States would "bear the full and entire responsibility."

Thuy made his latest attack on the U.S. position in the 12th session of the talks which began May 13. The meeting lasted about three hours.

Harriman contradicted Thuy. He told newsmen: "I still maintain there are straws in the wind despite what he said."

The coffee break today lasted only about half an hour as compared with 45 to 50 minutes last Wednesday and about 40 minutes in two meetings before that.

There have been conflicting assessments of the deadlocked discussions for several weeks, but this was the first time the differences had come up so openly in a formal meeting.

When he left the conference hall Thuy told newsmen: "There was no advance in today's session because the United States spoke of the future of the Southeast Asian region to avoid talking about the unconditional cessation of bombardments."

Harriman, back at the U.S. Embassy, said he could not claim any "immediate results" in the talks, but he stuck to his line of "straws in the wind."

In his statement to Thuy, Harriman renewed promises of U.S. support for a postwar Asian development program in which North Vietnam would participate. He appealed for an end to the war.

The American envoy recalled that President Johnson had pledged U.S. financing for a development program in a speech as Johns Hopkins University in April 1965.

Fire Captain Is Killed In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Hamilton fire captain died and another fireman was overcome about midnight in a fire at a dwelling here.

Capt. Ralph Thomas, a 25-year veteran of the fire department who would have been 54 years old today, and fireman Donald Hon, 34, collapsed after having been in the burning house for a few minutes.

Thomas was the first Hamilton fireman to die in the line of duty since three died in a courthouse fire in 1912. Hon was reported in good condition today.

There was no immediate estimate as to the damage but firemen said it would be "moderate to heavy."

Thomas and Hon had gone into the house to arouse occupants but, as it developed, the residents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mans, were away from home at the time.

The fire was believed to have started in a bedroom closet and authorities said they believed Thomas and Hon were overcome by fumes from plastic bags burning in the closet. They collapsed on the sidewalk after coming out of the burning house.

The origin of the fire was not determined.

the poles came down," he said. Fasse said some people crawled out from under the tent and others were freed when circus workers cut the canvas.

"People were crawling on their stomachs, caked with mud, coughing from swallowed rain water. Circus workers flashed knives as they ripped at the canvas to free as many persons as they could. Elephants bellowed in the background," he said.

"Glancing along the collapsed side of the tent, one could see people constantly crawling from beneath the canvas. . . .

"People reached out everywhere to lend a hand in getting out. Some helped others to their feet."

Jim Plugh, who was trapped beneath the canvas for about five minutes after the collapse, said:

"My eye caught one of the side support poles pull out of the ground and start to go up. My date got out in the aisle and started to go out and I grabbed the child of a friend in my arms and started down."

"Then the pole was all the way out and swinging. We made it to the ground, dodging the swinging poles."

"I looked up and saw the center pole coming toward us and dropped to the ground, shielding the child underneath me. We lay there for about five minutes—couldn't see my date but I felt her hand—and then there were people behind us, cutting the canvas with knives."

"It never entered my mind that we could suffocate," Plugh said.

Rescue workers were forced to crawl through ankle-deep water in search of those trapped underneath the ripped canvas.

About 2.9 inches of rain fell in a two-hour period and winds were gusting up to 40 miles an hour. The force of the storm ripped down power lines and flooded streets in the city, causing Mayor Paul Latimore to order all nonemergency traffic from the streets.

Bodies of Boys In Refrigerator

LA HABRA, Calif. (AP) — The father of a boy missing for more than two hours found the bodies of his son and a companion, huddled together in an unused refrigerator in the family garage.

Salvador Ramos, 5, and John Rubio, 2, were discovered dead Tuesday by Salvador's father, Pablo Ramos.

The boys were missed shortly before noon by a 16-year-old babysitter.

Police Sgt. Ronald Meehan said the children apparently climbed into the unplugged refrigerator and the door slammed shut. He estimated the boys were in the refrigerator for more than two hours.

Averell Harriman that the search going on here for a way toward peace in Vietnam would fail unless the United States halts all attacks on the North at once. In case of such a failure, he argued, the United States would "bear the full and entire responsibility."

Thuy made his latest attack on the U.S. position in the 12th session of the talks which began May 13. The meeting lasted about three hours.

Harriman contradicted Thuy. He told newsmen: "I still maintain there are straws in the wind despite what he said."

The coffee break today lasted only about half an hour as compared with 45 to 50 minutes last Wednesday and about 40 minutes in two meetings before that.

There have been conflicting assessments of the deadlocked discussions for several weeks, but this was the first time the differences had come up so openly in a formal meeting.

When he left the conference hall Thuy told newsmen: "There was no advance in today's session because the United States spoke of the future of the Southeast Asian region to avoid talking about the unconditional cessation of bombardments."

Harriman, back at the U.S. Embassy, said he could not claim any "immediate results" in the talks, but he stuck to his line of "straws in the wind."

In his statement to Thuy, Harriman renewed promises of U.S. support for a postwar Asian development program in which North Vietnam would participate. He appealed for an end to the war.

The American envoy recalled that President Johnson had pledged U.S. financing for a development program in a speech at Johns Hopkins University in April 1965.

Fire Captain Is Killed In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Hamilton fire captain died and another fireman was overcome about midnight in a fire at a dwelling here.

Capt. Ralph Thomas, a 25-year veteran of the fire department who would have been 54 years old today, and fireman Donald Hon, 34, collapsed after having been in the burning house for a few minutes.

Thomas was the first Hamilton fireman to die in the line of duty since three died in a courthouse fire in 1912.

Hon was reported in good condition today.

There was no immediate estimate as to the damage but firemen said it would be "moderate to heavy."

Thomas and Hon had gone into the house to arouse occupants but, as it developed, the residents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mans, were away from home at the time.

The fire was believed to have started in a bedroom closet and authorities said they believed Thomas and Hon were overcome by fumes from plastic bags burning in the closet. They collapsed on the sidewalk after coming out of the burning house.

The origin of the fire was not determined.

Ohio State Patrol Begins Licensing Cyclists Tuesday

Circleville Post of the Ohio State Patrol will begin testing motorcyclists for licenses beginning Tuesday, according to Post Commander Sgt. J. N. Pribble.

Testing will comply with a state law that all motorcyclists must have some form of license to operate a cycle on the street or highway by Jan. 1, 1969. Testing by the local Patrol will be every Tuesday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds in front of the 4-H and Grange Building by appointment only.

"There are two types of licenses," said Sgt. Pribble. "Those who have never had a license to drive any vehicle must take a vision test, a written examination and a road test. If he passes, he receives a license restricting him to the use of motorcycles, no other vehicles."

"Those who have operator's or chauffeur's licenses must apply for a motorcycle endorsement, which requires only a road test."

TESTS in the county will be given between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling the State Patrol at 474-2163.

Sgt. Pribble stated that tests will not be given on Tuesday of the County Fair week.

All of Ohio's 88 counties are administering the tests. Fairfield County is testing Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Other counties are Perry, Monday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Madison, Tuesday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Licking, Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Knox, Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Delaware, Thursday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Franklin, Wednesday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; and Union, Monday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

In 1967 there were 379 motorcyclists registered in Pickaway County. The Patrol figures it can license 28 motorcyclists per day. At that rate, licensing may be cut down to once or twice a month by the end of the year.

Negro Youths Had Firebombs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Secret Service man fired one warning shot at two Negro youths he caught approaching Gov. Ronald Reagan's home with two firebombs Tuesday night. The bombs did not ignite.

Police said the incident apparently was related to disturbances which started earlier Tuesday about two miles southwest.

The Republican governor's communications director, Lyn Nofziger, told newsmen the young men approached the Reagan home on foot as the Reagans were watching television inside.

When the Secret Service man challenged them, they ran, dropping two bottles filled apparently with flammable liquid and with rag wicks attached. Neither caught fire.

The youths ran down the street chased by the Secret Service man who fired a warning shot into the air, Nofziger said, adding that no one was reported hit.

One youth jumped into a car which sped away and the other outran pursuers, which by that time included state police officers, the Reagan aide said. Neither youth was caught.

He said Reagan and his wife Nancy were unaware what was happening outside.

Nofziger said Reagan did not want to comment on the incident immediately.

The Reagans rented the home in fashionable eastern Sacramento about two miles from the old governor's mansion, which the Reagans found unsuitable after a short stay there.

Secret Service men were assigned to guard Reagan along with other presidential candidates—announced or not—after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles June 5. Reagan is California's favorite son candidate to the GOP national convention.

Solar Flares Continue; Give Northern Lights View

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Magnetic storms, triggered by the biggest, brightest solar flare in more than two years, produced an unscheduled view of the Northern Lights and again fouled up shortwave radio communications around the world Tuesday night, government scientists said.

More of the same appears to be in the offing.

Forecaster Karl Kildahl at the U.S. Space Disturbance Forecast Center said there is a good chance of similar phenomena Wednesday night or Thursday as a result of another major, though smaller, flare Tuesday.

And, he said, data analysis showed a 65 per cent chance of a third large-magnitude flare Wednesday, when the effect of the first was expected to subside.

Residents of the northern United States should have been able to see a reddish glow on the northern horizon Tuesday night—"like little red fingers that go up into the sky and fall down again," Kildahl said.

The shortwave blackout Tuesday was less troublesome than the initial magnetic storm immediately after the flare was recorded at 1:03 p.m. EDT Monday.

Those first "noise storms" knocked out transmissions between 184 and 10 megacycles, Kildahl said. Tuesday night, the storms blacked out the range between 30 and 3 megacycles, he said.

Thieu Sees U.S. Pullout In 1969

ABOARD USS CONSTELLATION, off North Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today that he thinks American troops can begin leaving South Vietnam in 1969. He said the next Viet Cong offensive—expected late this month—"may be the last all-out effort from the Communists."

Thieu was reminded at a news conference aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation that he had said in April that American forces could be reduced by the end of 1968. He was asked how he felt about this now.

"I think we have moved very fast on our plan to develop our armed forces according to our 1968 and 1969 plans," he replied. "The end of 1968 is too soon, but I think from 1969 we could have a timetable for phasing out the major American units."

"But I repeat, I never hope that all American forces have to withdraw altogether at one time. There should be a progressive phasing out because we know well that Vietnamese armed forces need time to grow, to train, to be equipped and to take over more and more responsibility from the American forces."

Seek To Determine Why Negro Re-Enlistments Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro re-enlistments in the Army have dropped dramatically, according to a Pentagon report covering 1967.

The development, which officials says is puzzling, has triggered a study to find out why.

Officials are reluctant to link racial unrest with the slide of Negro first term re-enlistment rates from 66.5 per cent in 1966 to only 31.7 per cent last year.

One senior official said, "no body knows why" Negro soldiers showed such an abrupt change of attitude toward signing up for another hitch after completing a first enlistment or a draft tour.

"I'm just as puzzled as you are," he official told a reporter. He said his experts are analyzing the situation.

The Army said, "It must be noted there is a corresponding drop in re-enlistment rates for Caucasians as well."

The report does reflect a decline in white first term re-enlistment rates from 20 per cent in 1966 to 12.8 per cent in 1967.

But this decline was not nearly as severe as among Negro soldiers.

Asked for its explanation of the drop-off the Army said it believes that risk of death or injury and possible repeat tours in Vietnam are "major determining factors."

The report on "Negro Participation in the Armed Forces" registered first term re-enlistment dips for all the other services, but by only a few percentage points in each case.

The single exception was a slight uptrend in re-enlistments by white airmen—from 16 per cent in 1966 to 17.3 per cent in 1967. At the same time, Negro airmen re-enlistments went from 30.1 per cent to 26.9 per cent.

The rate of white sailors re-enlisting in the Navy declined from 17.6 per cent in 1966 to 16.7 per cent in 1967; the rate of Negroes from 24.7 to 22.5 per cent.

In the Marines, white re-enlistments totaled 10.5 per cent in 1966 and 9.7 per cent last year. The Negro re-enlistment rate in the Corps went from 19.5 per cent to 15.9 per cent.

If, as the Army suggests, its drop-off in re-enlistments is attributable to the risk of death or wound, the same factor apparently does not apply in the case of the Marine Corps, to judge by the relatively slight re-enlistment decline among the Marines.

Between them, the Army and Marines have absorbed about 95 per cent of the U.S. casualties in the Vietnam War.

Demos Hint Convention May Move

CHICAGO (AP) — Efforts to settle a telephone strike took on added urgency today after the first indication by the Democratic National Committee chairman that labor troubles may force the party's convention out of Chicago.

Negotiators said they were ready to resume talks with Mayor Richard J. Daley present in efforts to end a 64-day strike against Illinois Bell Telephone Co. by some 11,800 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. However, there was no indication when talks might resume.

And there was a threatened nationwide strike by 24,000 Communications Workers of America long-lines employees against American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Bell's parent corporation, which would curtail long-distance service and hamper interstate television transmission.

A secret vote on whether to strike was conducted by CWA locals across the nation Tuesday. The unofficial vote by Local 5050 at Chicago was reported as 286 to 234 against strike authorization.

John M. Bailey, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, indicated Tuesday for the first time that party leaders are considering moving the convention.

Circleville Post of the Ohio State Patrol will begin testing motorcyclists for licenses beginning Tuesday, according to Post Commander Sgt. J. N. Pribble.

Testing will comply with a state law that all motorcyclists must have some form of license to operate a cycle on the street or highway by Jan. 1, 1969. Testing by the local Patrol will be every Tuesday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds in front of the 4-H and Grange Building by appointment only.

"There are two types of licenses," said Sgt. Pribble. "Those who have never had a license to drive any vehicle must take a vision test, a written examination and a road test. If he passes, he receives a license restricting him to the use of motorcycles, no other vehicles."

"Those who have operator's or chauffeur's licenses must apply for a motorcycle endorsement, which requires only a road test."

TESTS in the county will be given between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Appointments may be made by calling the State Patrol at 474-2163.

Sgt. Pribble stated that tests will not be given on Tuesday of the County Fair week.

All of Ohio's 88 counties are administering the tests. Fairfield County is testing Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Other counties are Perry, Monday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Madison, Tuesday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Licking, Friday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Knox, Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Delaware, Thursday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Franklin, Wednesday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; and Union, Monday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

In 1967 there were 379 motorcyclists registered in Pickaway County. The Patrol figures it can license 23 motorcyclists per day. At that rate, licensing may be cut down to once or twice a month by the end of the year.

Reagan Guard Shoots at 2

Negro Youths Had Firebombs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Secret Service man fired one warning shot at two Negro youths he caught approaching Gov. Ronald Reagan's home with two firebombs Tuesday night. The bombs did not ignite.

Police said the incident apparently was related to disturbances which started earlier Tuesday about two miles southwest.

The Republican governor's communications director, Lyn Nofziger, told newsmen the young men approached the Reagan home on foot as the Reagans were watching television inside.

When the Secret Service man challenged them, they ran, dropping two bottles filled apparently with flammable liquid and with rag wicks attached. Neither caught fire.

The youths ran down the street chased by the Secret Service man who fired a warning shot into the air, Nofziger said, adding that no one was reported hit.

One youth jumped into a car which sped away and the other outran pursuers, which by that time included state police officers, the Reagan aide said. Neither youth was caught.

He said Reagan and his wife Nancy were unaware what was happening outside.

Nofziger said Reagan did not want to comment on the incident immediately.

The Reagans rented the home in fashionable eastern Sacramento about two miles from the old governor's mansion, which the Reagans found unsuitable after a short stay there.

Secret Service men were assigned to guard Reagan along with other presidential candidates—announced or not—after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles June 5. Reagan is California's favorite son candidate to the GOP national convention.

Haskins said conditions at the prison were "pretty near normal" Tuesday night. He ordered all work companies back on their jobs Wednesday.

Officials said between 100 and 150 of the 1,590 inmates participated in the disturbance.

The trouble apparently stemmed from complaints about parole board procedures and low inmate wages, Koblenz said. Inmates with dependents earn 8 1/2 cents an hour; the others receive 4 cents.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered Guardsmen of Ohio's 168th Infantry into the prison shortly after the disturbance erupted. Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso said the guardsmen probably would be released from duty at the prison sometime today.

Two men walked away from the institution grounds during the confusion Tuesday afternoon, but were quickly rounded up.

Thieu Sees U.S. Pullout In 1969

ABOARD USS CONSTELLATION, off North Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today that he thinks American troops can begin leaving South Vietnam in 1969. He said the next Viet Cong offensive—expected late this month—"may be the last all-out effort from the Communists."

Thieu was reminded at a news conference aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation that he had said in April that American forces could be reduced by the end of 1968. He was asked how he felt about this now.

"I think we have moved very fast on our plan to develop our armed forces according to our 1968 and 1969 plans," he replied. "The end of 1968 is too soon, but I think from 1969 we could have a timetable for phasing out the major American units."

"But I repeat, I never hope that all American forces have to withdraw altogether at one time. There should be a progressive phasing out because we know well that Vietnamese armed forces need time to grow, to train, to be equipped and to take over more and more responsibility from the American forces."

A week ago Miss Cloney announced she would discontinue night club performances after the Harolds Club engagement but would continue to make records and television appearances.

In a July 1 ruling, the Bureau of Public Roads said the tables should be presented at pre-award sessions. The state contends they should be presented after the award to lowest bidder at pre-construction sessions.

Masheter advised the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads that the state has reached a deadlock with federal agencies over the so-called "manning tables," which indicate the contractor's "affirmative action program" on recruiting, hiring and training employees from minority groups.

In a July 1 ruling, the Bureau of Public Roads said the tables should be presented at pre-award sessions. The state contends they should be presented after the award to lowest bidder at pre-construction sessions.

Masheter advised the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads Friday by letter that until the difference is resolved the state will not open any more bids.

A state highway department spokesman in Columbus Tuesday voiced two basic objections of the state:

—A second or even third contract bid might have to be substituted for the lowest bidder in case low bidder's manning tables aren't judged to be in order.

—It gives a representative of the labor department the power to determine whether the manning tables are sufficient, which is considered "an intrusion."

J. R. Cooke, deputy director of Division 8 at Middletown, said that unless the federal-state differences were settled by today, bids for the Ohio 48 bypass project won't be opened Aug. 6 as planned.

If advertising for the Ohio 48 project cannot be placed in newspapers this week, the Aug. 6 date must be postponed to permit another month-long run of the advertisement, highway officials said.

Fire destroyed a trailer load of hay and blocked Circleville-Florence Chapel Road about noon Tuesday.

Larry Duleson, Route 3, reported that he was hauling two trailers of hay behind his tractor when he noticed that they had caught fire. He told sheriff's deputies that he stopped and disconnected the trailers and was able to put out one of the fires but that he flame in the other trailers was too high to be controlled.

The fire destroyed $75 worth of hay, a $200 trailer and about 30 feet of telephone wire that lined the road.

Cause of the fire is undetermined, according to the sheriff's office.

Halt Highway Bid Openings Across Ohio

Wrangle Over U.S. Regulations Brings Order

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Highway Director P. E. Masheter has ordered a statewide clampdown of highway bid openings until a procedural wrangle with the federal government over the number of minority group workers on construction projects is resolved.

The action could have immediate effect on the $3.1 million Ohio 48 bypass near Lebanon in Warren County.

Masheter advised the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads that the state has reached a deadlock with federal agencies over the so-called "manning tables," which indicate the contractor's "affirmative action program" on recruiting, hiring and training employees from minority groups.

Edible Scum

When you see green scum floating on a pond, you are looking at a potential source of food for mankind. The scum doesn't look appetizing, but what may be used as food is not the wild algae, but varieties to be cultivated in tanks and pools in the future.

Science is finding that algae—tiny microscopic plants which grow in profusion in sunny water both fresh and saline—are rich in human nutrients, including a healthful percentage of protein. Presumably selective breeding and hybridization of food algae could improve them as much as wild vegetables and cereals have been improved.

A ton of wheat a year, more or less, may be produced from an acre. The same acre, flooded, might produce 20 tons of edible algae. One by-product of such algae "gardens" would be a greater oxygen supply for the earth's atmosphere, threatened with oxygen depletion by growing populations and industry.

What do algae taste like? The less said on that subject the better. But science should be able to think of something.

A.C.T. Is Success

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes one community theater thrive while others fail? The ingredients for success are being demonstrated in Hollywood these weeks as the American Conservatory Theater offers two plays at the Huntington Hartford Theater.

The San Francisco-based repertory company is making its first full-scale invasion of Southern California and audiences have been cheering the offerings of Moliere's "Tartuffe" and Dylan Thomas' "Under Milkwood."

The reception echoes the sentiments of critics. The conveniently initiated A.C.T. has been called "the most prolific and probably the most exciting repertory company in the U.S." by Newsweek. Walter Kerr of The New York Times has commented, "It's just possible that the A.C.T. may revolutionize American theater practice." Cecil Smith of the Los Angeles Times called the original premiere of the company's "Tartuffe" "the most exciting evening I ever spent in the theater."

Why is the A.C.T. so good? The question was put to red-bearded Wilma Bushnell, the general manager.

"One reason is the talent of Bill Ball," he replied, referring to the director whose unorthodox staging has brought new vitality to standard plays. "A second factor is the quality of the acting company; actors want to work with Bill. Now that we're a going concern, the concept of training new performers is paying dividends in ensemble playing.

"Another factor in our favor is the relative youth of the company. The average performer is around 28 or 29 and the staff members are mostly about 32. So the usual generation gap between those who run things and those who do things is avoided."

The A.C.T. had its beginnings in Pittsburgh in 1965. "But the theater and the community didn't mesh," said Bushnell, and the company moved on to the University of Michigan, Westport, Conn., and Stanford University before finding a home in San Francisco in 1967.

"It was a happy coincidence: San Francisco happened to be without a theater and we were without a city," said Bushnell.

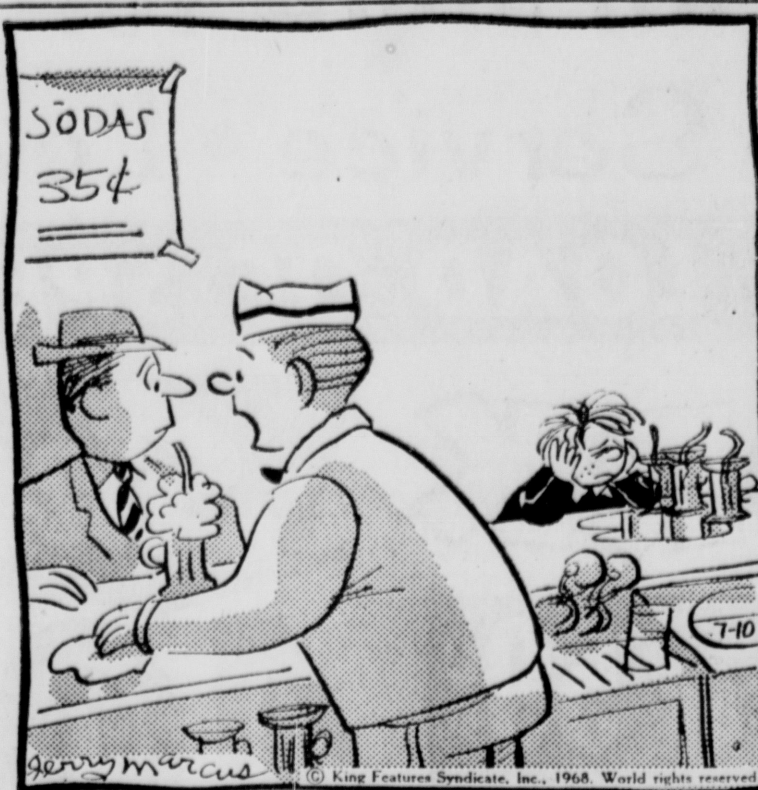

The company took over the Geary Theater (1,450 seats) and the Marines Memorial (640) and began a dizzying schedule of opening new plays. This year the A.C.T. expects to play before upwards of 450,000, sending touring companies on 70 one-night stands as distant as Pullman, Wash. An important adjunct is the conservatory, which this summer is running an academy for 225 students.

Year-around, the conservatory offers training to actors in everything from juggling to African dancing. A key part of the training is the Alexander Method, which Bushnell described as a way to harness nervous tension for use in a performance.

OFF THE EMERGENCY list is heart transplant patient Dr. Philip Blalock, 59, shown in Groote Schuur Hospital, Cape Town, South Africa. A second heart transplant was contemplated, but he said no.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ABOARD an L.A.-bound plane that made several intermediate stops, a little girl asked her mother, "What was the name of the city before last that we landed in?" The mother, engrossed in a paperback, grumbled, "How do I know? And why do you suddenly want to know, anyhow?" "Well, for one thing," observed the little girl, "Papa got off there."

To hear him tell it, a big blow-hard at a winter festival in Vermont had almost made the 1968 U.S. Olympic ski team. "Why then," asked a young lady innocently, "do you sit all day at that picture window sipping up liquor and watching other people exercise? Why don't you get out there, and ride up on that ski lift that operates from morning until night?" The blow-hard looked at her aghast. "If I did that," he grumbled, "how would I get down?"

A librarian in Baltimore remarked to a fellow-worker in the stacks, "You're wearing your wedding ring on the wrong finger." "I know," was her weary reply. "I married the wrong man."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

If a child is born with a heart murmur, how is it determined if it is, or is not a dangerous kind?

It is a never ending source of wonder that so few children are born with any kind of heart murmur or heart defect, considering the millions that are born each year. They occur so rarely that mothers must not have the slightest anxiety about this possibility. The frequency is even further reduced because doctors now follow most pregnancies from the time they are definitely established until delivery. All drugs are now reduced to a minimum during pregnancy and eliminate the frequency of this complication.

A simple, unimportant heart murmur is usually unaccompanied by the tell-tale symptoms that identify more important murmurs. The safe, "functional" murmurs do not affect the growth of the infant, his health, and, later, his capacity to indulge in full activity in sports. No limitation is imposed on the child with such a murmur, in order to avoid the psychological stigma of being an invalid. Parents, school officials, and doctors should be acquainted with the existence of the murmur to avoid possibility of the child learning about it and feeling insecure, or inadequate, as a result. When he is old enough, he can be told about it, with the emphasis made on its relative unimportance.

A more complicated murmur, due to some heart defect, can be studied in many ways. There are now specialists who, by X-rays and angiograms, can pinpoint any defect in the heart valves, or the walls that separate the right side of the heart from the left.

So remarkable are the advances made in the diagnosis and in the surgery of heart defects that many children who might otherwise have been chronic invalids can eventually live perfectly normal, healthy adult lives.

What are the most common types of hearing impairment? Are they different in the young from the adult?

There are two most common forms of deafness. The first is called the conductive type, in which there is some interference with sound waves as they enter the ear canal and make the ear drum vibrate. Infections of the middle ear on the other side of the ear drum interfere with the transmission of the sound of the spoken voice. The second type is called the perceptive form, or nerve deafness due to disease of the inner ear, the nerves going to the brain and disease of the brain itself. Frequently, there can be a combination of both the conductive and the nerve deafness in the same person.

A special condition called otosclerosis is one that tends to occur more frequently in women and, almost always, has an hereditary background. This particular kind of deafness lends itself to some of the new, remarkable, and ingenious operations that have been devised in the past 25 years.

With advancing age, there frequently is a gradual loss of hearing, especially for the high tones. This is known as presbycusis and is considered to be a combination of both types of hearing impairment.

The advances in the use of modern hearing aids have been remarkably effective in amplifying sound for those who have this form of deafness. The benefits are great for those who can break through the restrictions of their vanity that cheats them of the right to hear again.

The Business World

By PHIL THOMAS (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissions have multiplied nearly five times in 10 years on Wall Street and with six months of record trading just finished they're expected to keep climbing.

Commissions, currently being looked over by the Securities and Exchange Commission, are geared to volume in that the more shares of stock bought and sold the more commissions are generated for a brokerage house.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange hit nearly 1.5 billion shares in the first six months this year and exceeded 13 million shares a day 50 times, compared with five days in the first half of 1967. For all of 1967, Big Board volume came to about 2.5 billion shares valued at about $125 billion.

The huge 1967 volume netted the exchange's 650 member firms a commission income of about $1.5 billion with one per cent of this, about $15.5 million, being paid to the exchange itself.

The record volume also meant record taxes for the City of New York which took in an estimated $250 million in stock transfer taxes during the fiscal year ended June 30. This compared with $166 million collected during the 1966-67 fiscal year.

The accelerating volume is in sharp contrast to a decade earlier when 1957 volume of 714 million, valued at $27.4 billion, earned member firms a commission income of $330 million—about one-fifth of last year's total.

"Commissions average about one per cent of the market value of the stock," a broker said, "but vary depending on the price of the stock."

The percentage paid is higher for lower-priced stocks and for odd lot transactions, those shares bought in lots of less than 100.

"Both the small individual investor and the big buyer, such as a mutual fund, pay at the same commission rate," he said. "For example, a person buying 100 shares of AT&T at $51.50 a share would pay a commission of $44.15—less than one per cent. A fund buying 25,000 shares of the same stock would be charged $11,037.50."

The amount of commission the individual broker gets to keep, according to Alvin Schonfeld, managing partner of H. Hentz & Co., "Varies around the Street, with the average rate around a third. If a broker takes in a $100 commission, he gets $33.33, although in some houses the more business a broker does the higher the rate of payout."

John Cuniff's column will resume Wednesday.

A GOP-Dem Coalition

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

George Wallace of Alabama counts on getting enough electoral votes next November to deny a clear majority to any Republican or Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

This would, of course, throw the election into the House of Representatives, where George is counting on a deal with one or the other of the major political parties in exchange for influence and patronage. But it won't work out that way for a very simple reason: a McCarthy or a Humphrey on the one hand, and a Nixon or a Rockefeller on the other, would be committing political suicide by making any deal that would be satisfactory to a segregationist minority.

Hubert Humphrey could take a chance by putting his arm around Governor Lester Maddox of Georgia. This implied nothing more than a willingness to work with any Democrat within the traditional party setup. But if Hubert Humphrey, as a Presidential aspirant, were to bargain with Wallace for House of Representatives electoral support, it would kill him with the northern Democrats who have been following him ever since 1948 when he staged that demand for a really strong civil rights plank.

Humphrey could not accept the Wallace demands for the abandonment of civil rights legislation, or for a review of U.S. Supreme Court decisions by a panel of justices drawn from the court systems of the fifty states, and still keep face with his own party majority. And anything that goes for Humphrey in this matter of denying a hypothetical Wallace deal goes double for Gene McCarthy, whose support comes from the campus radicals and the intellectuals who want more desegregation, not less.

As for the Republicans, Nelson Rockefeller has been so publicly anti-Wallace that it is impossible to see him exchanging anti-integration promises for any hypothetical House of Representatives marginal vote. Richard Nixon has not been so openly contemptuous of the Wallace ideas, but he has expressed himself on the quiet in favor of such things as open housing. So he, too, could hardly risk a deal with Wallace just to be elected President in a situation that would surely lead to never-ending cries of "corrupt bargain."

Since none of the major party candidates could afford to face the future after a Wallace deal, it is obvious that they would settle matters between themselves before the House of Representatives got around to voting for the Presidency. The U.S. has never yet had a coalition government, but we will surely get just this if Wallace succeeds in throwing the election into the House.

The deal, presumably, would give the Presidency to whatever major party nominee had received the bigger vote in the November balloting. But the other major party would be paid off with lesser jobs in influential spots. There would be the Vice Presidency and a number of Cabinet posts to share.

In Franklin Roosevelt's day we had an approach to coalition government when the Republicans, Henry Stimson and Frank Knox, were brought into the Cabinet to achieve unity in a threatening international crisis. If this sort of thing could be done once, it can be done again. It would certainly form a precedent for denying Wallace any leverage on the major parties should the 1968 Presidential election be thrown into the House.

Whether George Wallace represents a "threat," as many think, or whether he stands for a legitimate go-slow approach in this matter of solving racial problems, it just isn't in the cards for him to succeed in his third party adventure. If a major party candidate has to make a coalition to win in the House, it won't be with the Wallace followers. The two major parties will do what the Christian Democrats and the Socialists did in West Germany. They will share the government between themselves.

Edible Scum

When you see green scum floating on a pond, you are looking at a potential source of food for mankind. The scum doesn't look appetizing, but what may be used as food is not the wild algae, but varieties to be cultivated in tanks and pools in the future.

Science is finding that algae—tiny microscopic plants which grow in profusion in sunny water both fresh and saline—are rich in human nutrients, including a healthful percentage of protein. Presumable selective breeding and hybridization of food algae could improve them as much as wild vegetables and cereals have been improved.

A ton of wheat a year, more or less, may be produced from an acre. The same acre, flooded, might produce 20 tons of edible algae. One by-product of such algae "gardens" would be a greater oxygen supply for the earth's atmosphere, threatened with oxygen depletion by growing populations and industry.

What do algae taste like? The less said on that subject the better. But science should be able to think of something.

A.C.T. Is Success

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes one community theater thrive while others fail? The ingredients for success are being demonstrated in Hollywood these weeks as the American Conservatory Theater offers two plays at the Huntington Hartford Theater.

The San Francisco-based repertory company is making its first full-scale invasion of Southern California and audiences have been cheering the offerings of Moliere's "Tartuffe" and Dylan Thomas' "Under Milkwood."

The reception echoes the sentiments of critics. The conveniently initiated A.C.T. has been called "The most prolific and probably the most exciting repertory company in the U.S." by Newsweek. Walter Kerr of The New York Times has commented, "It's just possible that the A.C.T. may revolutionize American theater practice." Cecil Smith of the Los Angeles Times called the original premiere of the company's "Tartuffe" "the most exciting evening I ever spent in the theater."

Why is the A.C.T. so good? The question was put to red-headed Wilma Bushnell, the general manager.

"One reason is the talent of Bill Ball," he replied, referring to the director whose unorthodox staging has brought new vitality to standard plays. "A second factor is the quality of the acting company; actors want to work with Bill. Now that we're a going concern, the concept of training new performers is paying dividends in ensemble playing.

"Another factor in our favor is the relative youth of the company. The average performer is around 28 or 29 and the staff members are mostly about 32. So the usual generation gap between those who do things and those who do things is avoided."

The A.C.T. had its beginnings in Pittsburgh in 1965. "But the theater and the community didn't mesh," said Bushnell, and the company moved on to the University of Michigan, Westport, Conn., and Stanford University before finding a home in San Francisco in 1967.

"It was a happy coincidence: San Francisco happened to be without a theater and we were without a city," said Bushnell. The company took over the Geary Theater (1,450 seats) and the Marines Memorial (640) and began a dizzying schedule of opening new plays. This year the A.C.T. expects to play before upwards of 450,000, sending touring companies on 70 one-night stands as distant as Pullman, Wash. An important adjunct is the conservatory, which this summer is running an academy for 225 students.

Year-around, the conservatory offers training to actors in everything from juggling to African dancing. A key part of the training is the Alexander Method, which Bushnell described as a way to harness nervous tension for use in a performance.

Dear Editor:
The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 134, wishes to thank you for our news item for addresses of Vietnam servicemen.

The response to this article has been very little. We need all the addresses that we can get to keep a detailed file on our local servicemen who are stationed there.

The only way a record can be made and kept is with the help of the relatives and friends of servicemen who are in Vietnam. All civic clubs, schools and local residents can use this compiled list at anytime. All they need to do is to notify me at anytime and a list will be sent to them.

We are calling on all parents, sisters, brothers, wives and friends to please send their addresses, birthdates and return dates to us so they can be compiled and published for the community to know of our local servicemen who are stationed over there. Also, the birthdate of each serviceman will be published for a flood of cards to be sent from the community so they will know that we are behind them all the way and wish them a safe journey home.

So please send the above information to the address below. Let us let the community know which of our servicemen who are fighting for our country so that we can show our appreciation for all that they are doing for us now and in the years to come.

Please don't forget their zip codes, this number is very important to their address. It shows the location which they are stationed at.

Frenchie is very anti-social, so it's not like I could be talking to him one day and subtly drop a hint that maybe he ought to dress up a little more to go outside. So what should I do?

SEEN EVERYTHING
DEAR SEEN: Tell Frenchie that you have "seen everything" and it's too much. Ask him, in a nice way to please wear outdoorsy shorts while he's outside. If that doesn't work, tell your guests that you have some kind of a nut for a neighbor.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been suffering from a muscle-deteriorating disease for the past 11 years. He is 42 and hasn't been able to walk for four years, so he's in a wheelchair.

I hold down a job and am trying to raise three children, in addition to being a nurse to my husband, which is not easy.

I am 40, attractive and I miss dancing, swimming and bowling, which I once loved. Would it be wrong for me to accept the occasional companionship of a man who can do all those things I love to do? I don't want to get emotionally involved with another man because I love my husband, but, Abby, I get so weary just sitting with him.

What do other wives of handicapped husbands do? I am a normal, healthy, energetic woman. Please don't give me a sermon about having taken this man "in sickness and in health." I know all that. What I need is some advice.

FRUSTRATED
DEAR FRUSTRATED: If you honestly don't want to become emotionally involved with another man, don't go swimming, dancing, or bowling with one. It may start out innocently enough, but it rarely ends up that way. You say you have missed a lot.

Well, your husband has also missed a lot. And that "sermon" you didn't want to hear about having taken your husband "in sickness and in health" would not be a bad one to review. What if the "shoe" were on YOUR foot, which wasn't going anywhere?

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter announced her engagement a few months ago, and now there are indications that she is not quite so "sure" as she once was. The boy is pushing for an early wedding, and our daughter now says she wished she could wait "a little while," but because she said they'd have "a summer wedding," she has to go thru it with them.

In our hearts we have never felt that this young man was "right" for our daughter, but when she told us she was going to marry him, we kept our opinions to ourselves, since her decision had already been made. Now we are sorry we weren't more honest with her in the beginning, and we don't know what to say or do.

Please answer this as soon as possible.

TROUBLED PARENTS
DEAR TROUBLED: Let your daughter know that you are with her all the way if she wants to "wait a while." Encourage her to wait until she is absolutely certain that he is the man with whom she wants to spend the rest of her life. A broken engagement is relatively "painless" as compared to a broken marriage. If she doubts it, she can ask any divorcee.

Think Bomb Not Intended For Teacher

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The package that exploded and killed Daniel J. Ronec may have been sent to his brother, Tom.

A Lorain mailman, Herbert Harding, said Tuesday he noticed the name Tom Ronec on the parcel, which exploded and killed Daniel Monday when he opened it at his home in Lorain.

Tom Ronec, 25, lives in Orlando, Fla. He and his mother Susan, both use the "H" in their last name. Daniel dropped the "H".

Harding said he thought it was odd the package was addressed to Tom Ronec at Daniel's address because he "knew Tom didn't live in Lorain anymore."

Harding said the package had been forwarded to Lorain from Daniel Ronec's former address in Columbus, where he had been a graduate student at Ohio State University.

But postal officials in Columbus said they were almost certain the package wasn't forwarded from Ronec's old address there. Since the wrapping was destroyed in the explosion so there was no way to check the discrepancy.

Mechanical Institute Helped California

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The name is barely known outside the membership. It sounds like some kind of union, or school. Not, certainly, anything to conjure visions of empire building.

Yet, the 113-year-old Mechanical Institute of San Francisco helped do just that—build the California empire.

Through its huge private library, fairs, lectures and special events, the venerable "Mechanics" brought the knowledge and culture of the world to the muddy doorstep of some of the rowdiest real estate in the hemisphere.

Its influence in the state has pretty well vanished through the years. But an incident involving a century-old custom in full force today brought the institute to the attention of many people who didn't know it existed.

The incident was the resignation of Theodore R. Mayer as chairman of the board of regents of the University of California.

Mayer, who left the board

July 3, was a regent because he was also president of the Mechanics Institute. The California Legislature in 1868 passed a law to that effect in appreciation of the industrial and intellectual importance of the institute.

The fact gave UC's Berkeley campus leaders an idea. A number of students considered for a time buying a regents membership by joining the institute and electing its president, who would then exercise some formidable student control over the university.

Theoretically, a regent membership could be bought. After all, institute membership is only $1 with quarterly dues of 1.50. The ex-officio status of some regents was attacked in the legislature last year, but the old system was defended as praiseworthy—particularly regarding Mayer. The old way prevailed.

The institute's constitution, written in 1855 by a group of mechanics who could look only to themselves for help, set out objectives for the "establishment of a library and reading room, the collection of scientific apparatus, works of art and other scientific purposes."

For the next 40 years, the institute conducted fairs, sponsored lectures, adult education, classes, hosted theatrical, sporting and literary events. In its oak-paneled fourth-floor room was founded the country's oldest chess club.

The institute was a trusted intellectual force in the city. It inspired legislative acts, performed accurate "town crier" services in the form of public meetings and pamphlets. A grateful public issued noninterest loans to retire debts and gave outright money gifts.

The institute grew prosperous, mainly through its annual fairs, where products of the state's industrial and agricultural efforts were gathered under one roof. California's progress was the institute's progress.

Today, the institute's oak-paneled room houses 170,000 general, technical and historical volumes for the use of 8,300 members, as well as periodicals, endless technical papers and a special repository for U.S. government documents.

But there are no more lectures and classes. The fairs have long been discontinued. The institute's most exciting outside activity is sponsorship of cut-rate foreign charter flights.

Cleveland Marine Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Lance Cpl. Richard J. Gegelski of Cleveland has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reports.

Marine Pfc. Harry W. Bass Jr. of Columbus has died of wounds received in combat.

Still Is Raided

LAGRANGE, N.C. (AP) — Federal agents poured out 2,622 gallons of moonshine whisky worth $40,000 if sold by the drink and made one arrest in a raid on a farmhouse east of Lagrange. Agents said a mojo was hanging from a tree in the back yard. A mojo is parts of a turtle in a whisky bottle. The superstition believe it will keep away evil elements and the law.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Frenchie's' Shorts Taboo on the Green

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and must admit you sure do get some pips, but I think my problem takes the cake.

It's a neighbor of mine, (I'll call him "Frenchie") who is always out in his yard, puttering around, wearing only a little French beret and his UNDERPANTS. I don't mean regular swim trunks, or Bermuda shorts either. He wears those little brief, clingy jockey shorts—and that is all! Now is he some kind of nut?

When I have guests over, they see Frenchie out there in that get-up and wonder what kind of a neighborhood this is.

Frenchie is very anti-social, so it's not like I could be talking to him one day and subtly drop a hint that maybe he ought to dress up a little more to go outside. So what should I do?

SEEN EVERYTHING

DEAR SEEN: Tell Frenchie that you have "seen everything" and it's too much. Ask him, in a nice way to please wear outdoorsy shorts while he's outside. If that doesn't work, tell your guests that you have some kind of a nut for a neighbor.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been suffering from a muscle-deteriorating disease for the past 11 years. He is 42 and hasn't been able to walk for four years, so he's in a wheelchair.

I hold down a job and am trying to raise three children, in addition to being a nurse to my husband, which is not easy.

What do other wives of handicapped husbands do? I am a normal, healthy, energetic woman. Please don't give me a sermon about having taken this man "in sickness and in health." I know all that. What I need is some advice.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: If you honestly don't want to become emotionally involved with another man, don't go swimming, dancing, or bowling with one. It may start out innocently enough, but it rarely ends up that way. You say you have missed a lot.

Well, your husband has also missed a lot. And that "sermon" you didn't want to hear about having taken your husband "in sickness and in health" would not be a bad one to review. What if the "shoe" were on YOUR foot, which wasn't going anywhere?

Mechanical Institute Helped California

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The name is barely known outside the membership. It sounds like some kind of union, or school. Not, certainly, anything to conjure visions of empire building.

Yet, the 113-year-old Mechanics Institute of San Francisco helped do just that—build the California empire.

Through its huge private library, fairs, lectures and special events, the venerable "Mechanics" brought the knowledge and culture of the world to the muddy doorstep of some of the rowdiest real estate in the hemisphere.

Its influence in the state has pretty well vanished through the years. But an incident involving a century-old custom in full force today brought the institute to the attention of many people who didn't know it existed.

The incident was the resignation of Theodore R. Meyer as chairman of the board of regents of the University of California.

Meyer, who left the board

July 3, was a regent because he was also president of the Mechanics Institute. The California Legislature in 1868 passed a law to that effect in appreciation of the industrial and intellectual importance of the institute.

The fact gave UC's Berkeley campus leaders an idea. A number of students considered for a time buying a regents membership by joining the institute and electing its president, who would then exercise some formidable student control over the university.

Theoretically, a regent membership could be bought. After all, institute membership is only $1 with quarterly dues of 1.50.

The ex-officio status of some regents was attacked in the legislature last year, but the old system was defended as praiseworthy—particularly regarding Meyer. The old way prevailed.

The institute's constitution, written in 1855 by a group of mechanics who could look only to themselves for help, set out objectives for the "establishment of a library and reading room, the collection of scientific apparatus, works of art and other scientific purposes."

For the next 40 years, the institute conducted fairs, sponsored lectures, adult education, classes, hosted theatrical, sporting and literary events. In its oak-paneled fourth-floor room was founded the country's oldest chess club.

The institute was a trusted intellectual force in the city. It inspired legislative acts, performed accurate "town crier" services in the form of public meetings and pamphlets. A grateful public issued noninterest loans to retire debts and gave outright money gifts.

The institute grew prosperous, mainly through its annual fairs, where products of the state's industrial and agricultural efforts were gathered under one roof. California's progress was the institute's progress.

Today, the institute's oak-paneled room house 170,000 general, technical and historical volumes for the use of 8,300 members, as well as periodicals, endless technical papers and a special repository for U.S. government documents.

But there are no more lectures and classes. The fairs have long been discontinued. The institute's most exciting outside activity is sponsorship of cut-rate foreign charter flights.

Reds Uneasy Over Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — A high-ranking Czechoslovak Communist party official acknowledged today that the Soviet Union, Poland and East Germany have "considerable doubts" and "serious apprehensions" about events in Czechoslovakia and charged the fears were due to the new, open political system here.

This direct assessment of Czechoslovakia's position among its Communist neighbors was made by Oldrich Kaderna, head of the international section of the party Central Committee, at a meeting in the city of Kladno, the newspapers Prace and Mlada Fronta reported.

Kaderna contrasted the orthodox Communist countries, uneasy about an open political system "in which every one can voice his opinion," with Romania and Yugoslavia. He said they "frankly wish us success."

Kaderna's statement followed disclosure over the weekend that the orthodox Communist nations of Eastern Europe sent leaders to the Czechoslovak leadership again expressing concern about their liberal course.

Still Is Raided

LAGRANGE, N.C. (AP) — Federal agents poured out 2,622 gallons of moonshine whisky worth $40,000 if sold by the drink and made one arrest in a raid on a farmhouse east of LAGRANGE. Agents said a mojo was hanging from a tree in the back yard. A mojo is parts of a turtle in a whisky bottle. The superstitious believe it will keep away evil elements and the law.

Major Ohio Road Work Bids Opened in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bids on 58 highway projects with a value of $11.4 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways Tuesday, $6.5 million less than planned because of a federal order on equal employment opportunities.

The $6.5 million in interstate and U. S. route construction projects were deferred from today's opening as a result of a directive issued by the U. S. Department of Transportation aimed at insuring equal employment opportunities for minority groups.

The directive, made by the department's Bureau of Public Roads, demands precise manning tables of the number of Negroes, Mexicans, and Puerto Ricans to be hired on 90 per cent federally financed highway construction projects before tracts are awarded.

Director P. E. Masheter said a continued delay could cost more than $21,000 in Ohio road construction projects this summer.

Major project on today's bid opening was the 0.66-mile relocation and widening of Ohio 562 in Hamilton County. Foley Construction Co., Inc., Cincinnati, entered the apparent low bid of $2,142,242 against the state estimate of $2.4 million.

Other major projects included:

Erie—Widening and resurfacing 9.52 miles of Ohio 4; apparent low bid Ohio Road Paving Co., Columbus, $387,501; state estimate $388,000.

Erie-Huron — Resurfacing 2.15 miles of U. S. 20, 3.37 miles of Ohio 61 and 5.01 miles of Ohio 601 in Huron County and 0.92 miles of Ohio 601 in Erie County; apparent low bid Price Construction Co., Norwalk, $223,363; state estimate $223,100.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bids on 58 highway projects with a value of $11.4 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways Tuesday, $6.5 million less than planned because of a federal order on equal employment opportunities.

The $6.5 million in interstate and U. S. route construction projects were deferred from today's opening as a result of a directive issued by the U. S. Department of Transportation aimed at insuring equal employment opportunities for minority groups.

The directive, made by the department's Bureau of Public Roads, demands precise manning tables of the number of Negroes, Mexicans, and Puerto Ricans to be hired on 90 per cent federally financed highway construction projects before tracts are awarded.

Director P. E. Masheter said a continued delay could peril more than $21,000 in Ohio road construction projects this summer.

Major project on today's bid opening was the 0.66-mile relocation and widening of Ohio 562 in Hamilton County. Foley Construction Co., Inc., Cincinnati, entered the apparent low bid of $2,142,242 against the state estimate of $2.4 million.

Other major projects included:

Erie—Widening and resurfacing 9.52 miles of Ohio 4; apparent low bid Ohio Road Paving Co., Columbus, $387,501; state estimate $388,000.

Erie-Huron — Resurfacing 2.15 miles of U. S. 20, 3.37 miles of Ohio 61 and 5.01 miles of Ohio 601 in Huron County and 0.92 miles of Ohio 601 in Erie County; apparent low bid Price Construction Co., Norwalk, $223,363; state estimate $223,100.

Youths Face
Burglary Hearing

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—A preliminary hearing was scheduled for July 22 in Municipal Court here on burglary charges against Harry H. McIlwain Jr., Cincinnati, and William S. Raymond, 19-year-old Miami University students.

McIlwain is the son of Harry H. McIlwain Sr., prominent Cincinnati attorney and unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate in 1965.

The two were accused by police of taking at least 30 shirts, two coats, several billfolds containing money and two trophies Sunday night from the Sigma Nu fraternity house on the Miami campus.

Kansas City Police Start Using ALERT

Computer System Helps Officers Speed Work

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Police Department unveiled today what it called the nation's most advanced computer-based police information system.

Chief Clarence M. Kelley said the automated law enforcement response team—ALERT—will eliminate many man-hours of work and could save an officer from going unwarned into a dangerous situation.

The network will keep records and relay in a few seconds information on stolen vehicles, wanted persons, aliases used by criminals, current lists of fugitives, crime reporting statistics, as well as handle police department personnel, records and inventory control.

Official cited this instance of how the system will work:

A patrolman radios the license number of a car under observation. The police dispatcher feeds the automobile's license number into the computer, which replies in seconds the car's registration, whether the owner is wanted by police or considered dangerous, or if the car is stolen.

The dispatcher radios the information to the officer, including a warning if a potentially dangerous person is involved. The patrolman thus is prepared in case of trouble.

The chief said the computer system will enable an officer to check out up to 25 vehicles in the time it formerly took to check one by a manual search of records.

Kelley said the Kansas City computer is compatible with the FBI's National Crime Information Center in Washington, and local police hope to add a direct link between the two systems to further speed flow of information.

"Law enforcement," said the chief, "is becoming more businesslike every day."

Soviets Hold U.S. Students

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda reported today that two American students were caught trying to smuggle out anti-Soviet literature provided by the Chinese Embassy in Moscow.

The Communist party newspaper said customs officials at Brest, on the Soviet-Polish border, also discovered Russian icons hidden in the Americans' car.

The newspaper identified the two young men as James Kratzer and Parry Watson and said they were students at an affiliate of Stanford University in Vienna.

Something To Think About . . . A Good Listener

By JEAN CRIST

Have you ever been carrying on a conversation with an individual for whom you had great respect and admiration and suddenly you realized they weren't really listening to what you were saying? Of course, they were nodding and saying, "yes," "is that right?" etc., on occasion, but you could tell they really weren't sincerely trying to understand what you were telling them. How did you feel? Rejected, stupid, angry, embarrassed, frustrated, or all of these? Then you can understand somewhat how a young child feels who comes bursting in home after school, anxious to tell what happened to him today and is met by an adult who only half-listens to what he says.

Still, we as adults cannot fully understand the impact this type of rejecting means to a child, for we are equipped with maturity enough to disregard the immediate, unpleasant reactions that we might have and replace them with more sensible, adult reactions. We tell ourselves that if the other individual isn't interested in what I'm saying, I'll terminate the conversation and find someone who is.

Children have not yet learned this ability to forget and go on. All they know is that an adult who is very dear to them and someone whom they idolize has made it clear they do not care to hear what has happened in school today. Which to a child can also be interpreted as saying, the adult feels that the things I think and do are not important and since I am what I think and do, it means I am not important to them.

To the adult, which is usually mother, the situation can be translated as such.

Thinking to herself, "Wish I knew what to have for supper. I'll have to get Jim downtown for that appointment and pick up Mary at 5 p.m. Oh, I forgot to take Bill's suit to the cleaners." And saying in a rather absent-minded fashion to her son, "Yes, honey, it sounds as if you had a busy day at school today."

Now this situation happens in many homes every day in a variety of ways. And in itself could not be classed as too important. But when it happens repeatedly over a period of time there can be some unhappy results.

Soon the child is rebuffed so many times that he simply gives up trying to tell his parents about his experiences and how he feels about things. Time has a way of slipping by swiftly and this fact goes unnoticed by the parents who have a myriad of other important things to think about.

Then come the tumultuous teen-age years. Mother and dad are disturbed and unhappy. Their son won't talk to them. He doesn't share with them the important happenings in his life. His silence shatters those who love him. They ask themselves why.

The lines of communication are down and have been down for many years. While you worried about what to have for supper, mother, and you were concerned about the car needing repair, dad, your son's deep need for communication was denied. And now it's your turn to carry the ache in your heart and know that what you are saying is not important to your son. That he has found others who will listen. Probably less qualified to understand or to counsel than you, but you see they have been listening all along which really is all your boy ever asked of you.

Ohio Doctor And Wife Robbed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two men and two women were taken into custody after an Ohio doctor and his wife were robbed of $2,468 here, police reported.

Dr. Liskow, who lives in Cincinnati, was struck with a gun butt and he and his wife were tied up before their room was ransacked of clothing, jewelry, cash, travelers' checks and car keys Sunday.

Liskow's car was stolen, then abandoned after it was involved in an accident.

Census Takers To Use Mail In '70 Count

Big City Areas
To Be Affected
By New Method

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old-fashioned census taker is going to be replaced by a count-by-mail and computer system in most of the country during the 1970 headcounting.

The Census Bureau says about 60 per cent of the population will be asked to count itself by filling out and returning mailed questionnaires.

Those who don't—and the bureau figures there will be a number, particularly in slum areas—will get a visit from the census taker.

The next census starts April 1, 1970, and will be the 19th general head count conducted by the federal government which is required by the Constitution to count its citizens every 10 years.

In the last census, bureau employees visited each household and collected a completed questionnaire which had been mailed in advance.

But with more than 200 million heads to count in 1970, the bureau is trying to step up its efficiency and cut costs in the process.

The mail-by-census technique, in the testing stage since 1961, will be conducted only in the large metropolitan areas where most Americans now live. Four out of every five counties will be counted the old way.

In tests of the two-way mailing thus far, the bureau reported cooperation ranging up to 91 per cent. But it admits to problems in the Negro slums.

Tests in Philadelphia and Cleveland showed about one-third compliance in low-income areas, a bureau spokesman said.

One purpose of these tests is to devise methods to improve the record.

For the next census the Bureau plans to set up about 400 district offices to handle about 500,000 persons each. Each district will handle its operations in only one way—either by two-way mail or by visits from a census taker to collect forms mailed in advance.

Thus, some households in some large metropolitan areas—such as Little Rock and Des Moines—will receive questionnaires by mail but will return them to the census taker, not the postman.

That's because large rural areas are included in the districts containing those cities and the bureau said rural areas don't lend themselves as yet to the new return mail technique.

An area must have accurate and precise addresses and permit volume mailings for the best results, the bureau said.

Mrs. James Wessner Continues Antiwar Drive

By LIBBY LACKMAN
Cincinnati Enquirer Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. James R. Wessner continues to wage her antiwar campaign with mixed feelings while her husband serves a four-year sentence in a federal prison for draft evasion.

Behind her is a background of wealth, culture and education—and at least two years' active involvement in the protest movement.

Ahead is the estrangement which began June 11 when her Harvard-educated husband was carried bodily to the federal penitentiary at Allenwood, Pa. Uncertainty lies in between.

Born Hester Butterfield, she is the daughter of a nationally known scholar and historical writer, Lyman H. Butterfield. Her mother is the former Elizabeth Eaton, daughter of Cleveland millionaire Cyrus Eaton who combines his railroad and banking interests with campaigns to bring about improvement in business and politics between the Soviet Union and the United States.

How do persons near this young woman view her? How does she view herself? Of her parents, she says: "They are 100 per cent behind us."

Her father, she said, wanted her husband to continue his protest by appealing his conviction through the courts.

Of her husband, she said: "Frankly, we survive much better with certain periods apart." They were married in March 1967.

Of her grandfather, Cyrus Eaton, she said: "He's a great admirer of Jim."

Hester doesn't plan to live near Jim's prison "because then, two people would be serving time. I think men in prison have the problem of adjustment to prison life. If they aren't living from visit to visit, and always looking at the outside world, they can better accept prison life."

She refuses to believe that her husband is cooperating with federal authorities while in prison—although there have been published reports to the contrary. He went limp after his sentencing, refusing to walk, eat and vowing to remain completely passive during his confinement.

In Cincinnati, Hester says she lives simply. Early each day, she and a following of draft counselors greet busloads of Army inductees at the Federal Building with offers of advice.

In an office at 4 W. Seventh St., with the rent coming from donations, they continue their counseling on what they

Xenian Named To Rocky Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Greene County Commissioner has been named to a pro-Rockefeller Local Government Officials Committee.

The campaign manager of the National Rockefeller for President Committee, Robert R. Douglass, announced today in New York that James A. Ford Sr. of Xenia would be on the committee.

Dog Is Surfer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Summer has brought out surfers by the thousands, including Olie. The five-pound dog is an accomplished surfer after riding the waves the past two weeks with Tim Ebner, 14, his master.

describe as legal ways to beat the draft.

Hester is a comely, 130-pound, 5-foot-5, with sparkling brown eyes, a splattering of freckles, and short-cropped, naturally curly brown hair.

What does the future hold? "I have some money. It's movement money," she declared.

She and Jim, she said, haven't wanted children, partly because they're concerned about the population.

She may go to Brazil to teach. "By the end of the summer," she said, "I'll be very sick of what I'm doing. I come from a scholarly background, and my ambitions are scholarly."

Hester has had a small taste of jail life, twice in California for induction center disturbances.

"I object to my position right now in Cincinnati. I cannot risk arrest," she said. Why?

"I have a responsibility to Jim, to stay out, and watch out for what's happening to him. I assume he's sticking to his non-cooperation, and I will publicize it."

She said she sees no clear-cut alternative for the draft in terms of a country defending itself. But she said a deserving substitute would be a well-paid volunteer army "for national defense, if it's necessary." And for Jim, and their cause? "Four years in prison is not a lot for a cause, out of a life expectancy of 70."

Mrs. James Wessner Continues Antiwar Drive

By LIBBY LACKMAN
Cincinnati Enquirer Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. James R. Wessner continues to wage her antiwar campaign with mixed feelings while her husband serves a four-year sentence in a federal prison for draft evasion.

Behind her is a background of wealth, culture and education—and at least two years' active involvement in the protest movement.

Ahead is the estrangement which began June 11 when her Harvard-educated husband was carried bodily to the federal penitentiary at Allenwood, Pa. Uncertainty lies in between.

Born Hester Butterfield, she is the daughter of a nationally known scholar and historical writer, Lyman H. Butterfield. Her mother is the former Elizabeth Eaton, daughter of Cleveland millionaire Cyrus Eaton who combines his railroad and banking interests with campaigns to bring about improvement in business and politics between the Soviet Union and the United States.

How do persons near this young woman view her? How does she view herself?

Of her parents, she says: "They are 100 per cent behind us."

Her father, she said, wanted her husband to continue his protest by appealing his conviction through the courts.

Of her husband, she said: "Frankly, we survive much better with certain periods apart." They were married in March 1967.

Of her grandfather, Cyrus Eaton, she said: "He's a great admirer of Jim."

Hester doesn't plan to live near Jim's prison "because then, two people would be serving time. I think men in prison have the problem of adjustment to prison life. If they aren't living from visit to visit, and always looking at the outside world, they can better accept prison life."

She refuses to believe that her husband is cooperating with federal authorities while in prison—although there have been published reports to the contrary. He went limp after his sentencing, refusing to walk, eat and vowing to remain completely passive during his confinement.

In Cincinnati, Hester says she lives simply. Early each day, she and a following of draft counselors greet busloads of Army inductees at the Federal Building with offers of advice.

In an office at 4 W. Seventh St., with the rent coming from donations, they continue their counseling on what they

American Civil Liberties Union Nurtured by Controversy

By A.F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A senator campaigning for a presidential nomination is slain, and the American Civil Liberties Union promptly goes to the aid of the accused.

A famed baby doctor is accused of conspiracy to counsel violation of the draft law. The ACLU involves itself.

A teacher is charged with violating a state law forbidding the teaching of evolution. The ACLU involves itself.

For 48 years, the ACLU has been embroiling itself as a self-appointed defender of the Bill of Rights.

Controversy has nurtured the organization which now claims a national membership of 125,000 and operates on an annual budget of $2.2 million.

Where is it headed? Into new controversy. Recommendations expected to generate new clashes came only recently from a 285-member national conference at the University of Michigan here.

It was proposed, among many other things, that the ACLU condone "violations of an admittedly valid law as a method of expressing political or social opinion."

Holding that "the present Selective Service law as presently administered and in present circumstances is a violation of civil liberties and constitutional guarantees," the Ann Arbor conference said the ACLU "should act to oppose the present draft law in the judicial, legislative and public arenas."

The vote was 100 to 20. Another resolution proposed government subsidy for public broadcasting "to foster diversity on the airways," and another advocated "a guaranteed income as a matter of right," in lieu of the present welfare system.

Whether these recommendations become national policy rests with the union's 80-member Board of Directors, which may adopt or reject conference actions, despite the fact this organization has battled for a "one-man, one-vote" principle in the public realm.

In 1925, five years after its founding, the ACLU became involved in one of the most famous cases in American judicial history: the Scopes Monkey Trial in Tennessee. Clarence Darrow was the ACLU's volunteer, unpaid counsel defending what the union claimed was an infringement on free speech.

John T. Scopes, a schoolteacher, was charged with violating a Tennessee law forbidding the teaching of evolution. Darrow lost to William Jennings Bryan, acting as special prosecutor, and Scopes was fined $100, but the State Supreme Court reversed the verdict on a technicality.

The law, although often flouted, stood until its repeal by the 1967 Tennessee General Assembly.

Among the latest trials in which the ACLU has involved itself was that of Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician-author, and four others accused of conspiracy to counsel violation of the Selective Service Act. That, too, was lost in the lower courts, but is being appealed.

When Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was arrested in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., the counsel for ACLU's Southern California chapter A. L. Wirin went to Sirhan in what Wirin described as a move to safeguard Sirhan's rights and to help him find a lawyer to represent him.

A few years ago within the space of 48 hours, ACLU attorneys were defending members of the DuBois clubs, which the Justice Department wanted to register as Communists front organization, and the constitutional rights of George Lincoln Rockwell, American Nazi Party leader who later was shot to death by one of his former lieutenants.

In the great majority of suits in which it imposes itself, the ACLU does so as a "friend of the court" and limits itself to defense of the accused's constitutional rights.

The ACLU has been a participant in several landmark decisions coming from the U.S. Supreme Court in recent months.

Among those in which it was on the winning side: —Federally funded aid cannot be denied dependent children on the grounds that a man having illicit relations with their mother is a "substitute father" and therefore must support them.

—That an 1866 civil rights act bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale and rental of property.

Losers have included: —Establishment of a policeman's right to "stop and frisk" a suspicious-looking person. —The upholding of a New York law requiring public school systems to lend textbooks to children in parochial or other private schools.

While it has been generating controversy at an increased rate in recent years, the ACLU also has been growing under the executive directorship of John de J. Pemberton, a 49-year-old Quaker lawyer from North Carolina, via the Harvard Law School and the State of Minnesota.

Pemberton took over in 1962 from ACLU's founder, 84-year-old Roger Baldwin, a World War I conscientious objector who went to jail and who was an activist in the American Council Against Militarism.

The union now has affiliates in 43 states with seven times that number of chapters. In 1950 it had 9,000 members and affiliates in but 36 states.

ACLU is a private organization, chartered by the State of

New York, and is supported by contributions from its membership. A "contributing member" pays $6 a year, and other categories pay from $10 through $100 and up.

Associate Director Alan Reitman says contributions of members average $18 each.

ACLU estimates its paid staff —executive, legal and clerical—no more than 100 to 125 combined. Pemberton's salary is $25,000 a year, that of his legal director, Melvin J. Wulf, $19,000. Directors of state affiliates range from less than $10,000 to $10,000 annually.

Many shades of political opinion are reflected in ACLU's members who include businessmen, lawyers, teachers, legislators, clergymen, journalists, authors, white collar workers, trade unionists, housewives and lawyers and educators constitute a majority.

"The objects of the American Civil Liberties Union," says its constitution, "shall be to maintain and advance civil liberties, including the freedoms of association, press, religion and speech, and the rights of the franchise, to due process of law and to equal protection of the laws for all people throughout the United States and its possessions. The union's objects shall be sought wholly without political partisanship."

National policy is set and reviewed by the ACLU's Board of Directors, headed by Ernest Angell, a New York attorney and president of the American Fund for Free Jurists.

Board members serve without pay, as do "cooperating (volunteer) attorneys," of which the ACLU says it has a roster of 800 scattered over the country. If paid the usual fee, the union estimates services of its volunteer lawyers would exceed $4 million a year.

Through its affiliates, and chapters within affiliates, the union is at any given moment working on several hundred cases and lobbying in state legislatures from coast to coast on thousands of bills. These range from antisecrecy and right-to-counsel measures to legislation to abolish loyalty oaths and capital punishment.

In what came as a surprise to some members and many outsiders, ACLU directors this month endorsed federal gun control legislation on grounds that freedom to bear arms must be sacrificed "to the more important freedom of free and fearless debate on which our free society rests."

Pemberton said "when citizens flaunt guns at political demonstrations... this does suppress minority opinions."

Before becoming involved in a case, most affiliates follow criteria established by the New York affiliate in requiring that an alleged violation pass at least one of three tests to qualify for support:

Has freedom of inquiry or expression been violated? Is due process of law affected? Has there been discrimination?

Founder Roger Baldwin likes to remind everyone: "No fight for civil liberty ever stays won."

National All-Stars Blank Americans, 1-0

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Things happen when Willie Mays is on a baseball field and that as much as anything tells why the National League won its sixth straight All-Star Game against the Americans Tuesday night. Wonderous Willie made the difference again, scoring the only run in the NL's 1-0 victory over the Americans in the 39th All-Star renewal held in the Astrodome.

They call the Dome the eighth wonder of the world but you'd have trouble convincing the American League that Willie doesn't deserve that designation instead of the indoor ball yard.

Mays managed to build a first-inning run and in this year of the pitcher one run often is all a team needs. It was all the Nationals needed with six pitchers sharing a three-hit, 11-strikeout performance against the frustrated Americans.

The AL hitters hit only three fly balls all night and none to Mays' center field zone. But Willie fought the freezeout on the bases.

Mays, who only became a starter because Cincinnati's Pete Rose broke his thumb Saturday night, opened the game with a single against Cleveland's Luis Tiant.

He led off first and Tiant threw over to Harmon Killebrew. Mays stepped back, then again led away. Again Tiant tossed and this time, disaster. "He said the ball moved," said Tiant, quoting Killebrew. "I guess it curved."

Mays thought it glanced off his back. At any rate, the ball eluded Killebrew and Mays took off for second.

Now Tiant turned his attention to Curt Flood, St. Louis' fine center fielder who was playing left because a fellow named Mays was in the NL line-up.

Tiant fell behind and on the fourth ball, he uncorked a wild pitch that flew high over catcher Bill Freehan's head.

Tiant said he crossed Freehan up on the pitch, delivering a high fastball when the catcher called for a low curve.

"It can happen a lot of times when you get a strange catcher working with a strange pitcher," said Dick Williams, manager of the American League team.

Mays moved to third and with Flood at first and none out, it looked like a big inning budding.

The AL played the infield back, hoping for the double play. Willie McCovey cracked a sharp shot on the synthetic astro turf right at second baseman Rod Carew.

Carew hesitated for a fleeting moment, but Mays already was bearing down on the plate, so the Minnesota infielder went for the double play. The AL didn't know it, but they had won the battle and lost the war.

"I had no idea one run would win it," said Mays. "I was just lucky enough to score the winning run."

The hit that started the rally was Mays' 23rd and the run he scored was his 20th in All-Star play—both records.

Now that they had their run, it was up to the NL pitchers to hold the edge. And they came through beautifully.

Don Drysdale permitted a leadoff double to Jim Fregosi and the AL didn't have another runner until Tony Oliva doubled against Tom Seaver with two out in the seventh.

Twenty batters went up and down in between against Drysdale, Juan Marichal, Steve Carlton and Seaver. There was another two out double in the eighth by Don Wert and nothing more.

Seaver struck out five batters in two innings and in the last three innings of the game seven of the nine American League batters retired went down on strikes. Ron Reed and Jerry Koosman shared the ninth, fanning two between them.

American League hurlers were almost as sharp, allowing just five hits and striking out nine. But Mays' first-inning run made the difference.

Di Vincenzo Given 12-1 Odds in Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Defending champion Roberto De Vincenzo teed off in the first round of the 72-hole British Open Golf Tournament today with the modest conviction that at 45 he has as good a chance as any in the 130-man field to win. I'm 12 to 1, the bookie say," the Argentine star said.

"But for my money everybody is 25 to 1. Any one of at least 25 can win it, Jack Nicklaus and all the others and me too, and so that makes all of us 25 to 1."

In fact, Nicklaus at 4 to 1 and Bill Casper at 5 to 1 appeared to be rather false favorites to master Carnoustie's 7,252-yard par-72 layout at such low odds.

A rapid shift in the weather put many of the golf stars in the running, including even some of the short hitters.

The North Sea winds which often turn Carnoustie into a tiger strangely were absent. Enough sun and overnight rain transformed the links into a sheer delight.

Rough, which some players regarded as unfair on about five holes, was cut back Tuesday to eliminate the possibility of a good shot being unfairly penalized.

The forecast was for favorable weather which could threaten Ben Hogan's 1953 record of 282 for 72 holes as well as his final round 68, as yet unbeaten in competition around Carnoustie.

After 18 holes today and an-

National Airlines Open Scheduled

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A rich new golf tournament, the $200,000 National Airlines Open, was officially added Tuesday to the Professional Golfer's Association schedule.

NAL and the PGA confirmed at a news conference that the tournament will be inaugurated next March 27-30 at the Country Club of Miami. Prize money will include $40,000 for the winner.

Most lucrative of the tournaments is the $250,000 Westchester classic at Rye N.Y., sponsored by Eastern Airlines.

other 18 Thursday, the field is cut to low 70 and ties. This again is cut back after 54 holes to the low 45 and ties with Saturday's final going for the biggest purse the British Open ever has offered in its 108-year history.

Prize money adds up to $48,000. The winner's check of

Rain Cuts 2 IL Contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain cut two games off the International League schedule last night and gave Rochester the opportunity to strengthen its hold on first place.

Rochester downed Buffalo 8-3, to take a full game lead over second-place Toledo. The Mud Hens' game with Syracuse at Toledo was washed out, as was the Columbus Jets' encounter at Louisville. Richmond took a pair from Jacksonville, 4-3 and 4-2.

$7,200 is small compared to American standards but the man who collects it knows he will have a bonanza of more than $100,000 in fringe benefits plus a special niche in golf's Hall of Fame.

One of the big question marks of the championship surrounded Arnold Palmer, 38-year-old Latrobe, Pa., millionaire who won the British Open in 1961 and 1962 and at any given moment is likely to explode into brilliance. He scruffed around Carnoustie Tuesday, all over the course and very unimpressive indeed.

It was hard to tell if Arnold is over-enthusiastic or over-golfed or over-rich. He doesn't know himself, he said.

Quaint Hamlet Towers Over Deer Creek

Like a fortress of the past, Williamsport towers over Deer Creek. The wall of trees, bridge astride the moat-like stream and towers piercing the verdant foliage entices even the stodgiest of minds to conjure childhood fantasies of dragons, knights and fair maidens in distress.

WATCH TOWER — Seen rising over the village by motorists approaching from the west is the school tower. The school originally taught students from grades one through high school. Today high school students are bussed to Westfall School.

CASTLE KEEP — Like the keep of a Norman fortress, the tower of the Christian Church rises over the village. The Church of Christ in Christian Union was the first congregation in the village, forming its church in 1816.

Aussie in Mental Hospital After Army Rejects His Bid

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Wally Mellish was in a mental hospital today, unwanted by the Australian army or the convicted prostitute he married while holding her and their baby son hostage.

The 22-year-old ex-convict, who staved off besieging police for a week by threatening to kill 19-year-old Beryl, Muddle and their three-month-old son Leslie, left his house Tuesday and surrendered when the police promised he could apply to fight in Vietnam. The army turned him down, and the police took him to the hospital.

Beryl, who was married to Mellish last Wednesday on the second day of the siege, said she is "through with Wally for good."

"Most of the time I was tied up with a dog chain and belt," she said in a statement. "Sometimes I was chained to a bed or a chair. I was more worried about the baby than myself. Then he decided to come out. ... Thank God it's all over."

The police did not enforce a warrant for her arrest for failing to pay a $42 fine for prostitution.

The police surrounded the suburban house July 2 after detectives tried to question Mellish about stolen car parts and he threatened to kill Beryl, and the baby. The next day Police Commissioner Norman Allan arranged the marriage ceremony and provided a wedding supper, but the bridegroom reneged on a promise to surrender.

Gapestry Taken

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Thieves tied Carla Griggs in her home and took a Medieval tapestry valued at $500,000. The two men passed up thousands of dollars worth of furs and art objects.

WALL OF TREES — A wall of trees surrounds the village of Williamsport as Deer Creek, like a medieval moat, flows below the hamlet.

FAIR MAIDEN — Waiting for her knight in shining armour, this fair maiden sits in her little tower at Williamsport.

GATE TOWER — Like a giant protector, this tower sits astride the entrance of the massive Methodist Church in Williamsport. The Methodist Church was built in 1891.

Ohio Power Sets Reward For Power Cable Vandals

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Power Co. offered a $25,000 reward Tuesday after vandalism knocked out power to customers in the northern Stark County area, including a tuberculosis hospital.

The Molly Stark Hospital switched immediately to auxiliary power. The power failure Tuesday affected an area between Canton and Alliance for two hours, but not customers in either city.

The reward was for information leading to the arrest or conviction of persons involved in damage to five insulating cables at two locations—Canton and Osnaburg Townships. Some cables were hit by gunfire and others sawed through, deputies said. The cables were above the ground.

About 1,400 Ohio Power workers are idle by walkouts of the Utility Workers Union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Electric Service Union in a dispute over new contracts.

Six of the utility's nine divisions are affected by the walkouts—Staubsville, Canton, Coshocton, Tiffin, Findlay and Lima. Unaffected are the Portsmouth, Newark and Zanesville divisions.

The company has obtained court orders to limit pickets to three at each entrance of the firm's general office building here. In Tiffin, pickets were barred by court order from interfering with employees who wanted to go into the plant.

Company officials at the Cardinal Generating Plant near Brilliant in Jefferson County said a truck loaded with materials from the general warehouse at Canton was blocked from entering that facility Tuesday.

Saxbe Discloses Camp Perry Leased by U.S.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal government holds a $50,000-a-year lease on Ohio's Camp Perry for National Rifle Association matches, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe disclosed Tuesday.

Saxbe was replying to a letter he received from U.S. Rep. Charles A. Vanik, Cleveland Democrat, who protested what he called "free and exclusive use of a portion of Camp Perry, a state-owned facility" for the matches this summer.

Saxbe said that as far as he knew the federal government leases the property solely for the use by the National Rifle Association. He said he does not know whether the NRA in turn makes payment to the U.S. government.

ZOWEE, BATMAN — City Patrolman Jack "Batman" Mills cleans up the sidewalk after two or three deft blows from a broom felled a ferocious bat that was plaguing downtown Circleville. The creature, at least two inches long, bared menacing fangs as "Batman" reared back and struck with the broom. His assistant, Dick "Wonder Boy" Lamb wanted to arrest the bat for vagrancy.
